Downtown Facade Improvement Grant

a deal for visual appeal

Call it superficial, but when it comes to doing business, beauty and profit start on the outside. And that's precisely what the BDC had in mind when developing the Downtown Facade Improvement Grant Program.

There's no denying it; first impressions really do count. What your customers and—more important—what your potential customers see when they look at your business from the street can make or break your relationship with them. But, with the expenses associated with growing any type of enterprise in today's marketplace, who can afford to worry about what the outside of a business looks like? With the help available from the BDC, you can.
